

Viento

Designed by Dondoli e Pocci. Viento is a stacking chair with soft modern lines that is light and adapts easily to any domestic environment. It is also suitable for outdoors and contract furnishing. In order to produce an object that included all these features, Created entirely in fiberglass-filled polypropylene and opted for the most highly developed air molding technology to obtain considerable thickness with an empty inner space that meant the chair could be light and resistant at the same time.

Viento is available in two versions: with a full chair back and with a woven chair back. Both of the versions are available in black, white, light blue, orange and bright green – colors that go well together to create an interesting interplay of tones, especially in the case of contract furnishing that requires a large number of chairs. The version with the woven chair back is also available in precious gold and silver.
